THE BALTIC COUNTRIES MEDIEVAL AND MODERN

The Baltic countries are a fascinating blend of centuries-old heritage and contemporary style. Once among the wealthiest and most influential cities in medieval northern Europe, Estonia and Latvia proudly showcase their Hanseatic and Livonian legacies, while Lithuania draws strength from its role in the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth, once the largest state in medieval Europe.

For much of the 19th and 20th centuries—aside from a brief interwar independence—these lands became hidden treasures, absorbed first by Imperial Russia and later the Soviet Union. Yet since reclaiming independence in the early 1990s, the Baltic nations have restored their architectural splendor, cultural vibrancy, and European prominence.

Today, they offer an extraordinary journey from medieval cobblestone streets and Gothic spires to sleek modern design and cutting-edge culinary scenes. Nowhere else blends historic depth with progressive energy so seamlessly.

STEP BACK 700 YEARS

The origins of the Baltic capitals date back to the 13th-14th centuries, and the magnificent old towns of Tallinn, Riga and Vilnius are UNESCO-protected hidden treasures of European medieval architecture. Step 700 years back in time and take a walking tour with private guide around these charming old towns' atmospheric lanes. Arrange for special visits to some of the medieval landmarks, such as the Gediminas Castle in Vilnius, the Dome Cathedral in Riga and the Medieval Town Hall in Tallinn.

ART NOUVEAU IN RIGA

Did you know that Riga boasts the largest collection of Art Nouveau buildings of any capital in Europe? In the city's sprawling Art Nouveau District you will find more than 200 buildings in this most artistic of styles. Take a stroll with a private guide along Alberta, Grečinieku and Elizabetes streets, which are entirely built in the Art Nouveau style, and don't forget to pay a visit to the fascinating Art Nouveau Museum, with an apartment authentically recreated as it would have looked at the start of the 20th century revealing tales of the lives of the people of that time.

STORIES OF THE SEASHORE

For centuries, the old hanseatic city of Tallinn has been connected to and dependent on the Baltic Sea. Take a private tour along the scenic bay of this evocative city to the picturesque Pirita recreational area to see the Olympic Yacht Centre. Then venture to the other side of the bay to visit Seaplane Museum in its historical seaplane hangars telling stories from under the water, on the water and above the water. And don't miss the dignified 100-year-old ice-breaker Suur Tõll by the pier.

THE "NEW DISTRICTS"

The last two decades have transformed the Baltic capitals into vibrant and modern cities and completely new city districts have emerged. Explore some of these fascinating areas: the new business district in Vilnius between Konstitucijos Avenue and the Neris embankment, viewing the Old Town from one of the high-rises; the Rotermanni district in Tallinn with its daring contemporary architecture and many cafés; and Pardaugava in Riga with its beautifully restored wooden houses, cosy cafés and small boutiques.

MANORS OF NORTHERN ESTONIA

For almost seven centuries, the German-Baltic nobility ruled the Baltic countries and the land is still dotted with their castles and manors.
